Purpose

Civil war is currently the predominant form of armed conflict. Internal wars, including current conflicts in Iraq, Afghanistan, and Syria, are the focus of many foreign policy debates in both this country and around the world. This course examines questions about when and where civil wars start, how long they last, how do they end, and why do some restart. Additionally, we will examine the role of external actors in civil war, in particular their influence through financial support, armed intervention, and peacekeeping.

Course Requirements

Evaluation is based on three exams: two midterms and one final exam. Each midterm is worth 30% of the final grade, while the (cumulative) final exam is worth 40% of the final grade.

Exams are given on schedule, and make-up exams will not be administered. Make all travel plans accordingly.

The date, time, and location of the final exam is determined by the registrar. Note that the registrar can change these details without consulting the course instructor. Check the registrar's website or office for exact details.

If you are entitled to examination accommodation, please coordinate with the appropriate organization (Cornerstone: The Learning Center) in advance of the examination. Students will not be able to obtain accommodations directly from the instructor or the teaching assistant.

Final grades will be based on the weighted average of exam scores plus extra credit. The grading scale is as follows:

$93 \leq x$	A
$90 \leq x < 93$	A-
$87 \leq x < 90$	B+
$84 \leq x < 87$	B
$80 \leq x < 84$	B-
$77 \leq x < 80$	C+
$74 \leq x < 77$	C
$70 \leq x < 74$	C-
$60 \leq x < 70$	D
$x < 60$	F

Attendance and Extra Credit

Attendance is highly encouraged, but not required. Three extra credit points will be added to a student's final grade if they miss no classes, two extra points for missing only 1-2 classes, one point for missing 3-4 classes and no extra credit will be awarded to students missing 5 or more classes.

If more than 95% of the class completes the on-line course evaluations everyone will have an extra 3 points to their final grade.

Texts

All readings will be available on blackboard. Lecture slides will also be posted to blackboard within 24 hours of the lecture.

Exam Format

Both midterm exams will consist of two parts. The first part will contain 8 terms for identification. Students will identify 5 of these 8 terms. The second part of the exam will consist of an essay question (from a choice of two prompts). Additional details, along with grading rubrics for the essay and the identification terms, will be posted to blackboard prior to the first exam.

The final exam, like the midterm will contain 8 identification terms with students choosing 5 to answer. Unlike the midterm, however, the final exam will have two required essay questions (from a choice of three prompts).

All grading will be done by the Teaching Assistant, each identification question is worth 8pts and essays are worth 60 points. If an arithmetical error is discovered, students should approach the TA, who will fix the error. However, if a student wishes to challenge a grade of all or part of the exam, the following steps must be taken:

1. Email the instructor within 72 hours of the exams being returned.
2. Explain which aspect(s) of the rubric(s) should lead to a higher score. For each disputed element, the student should cite specific aspects of the rubric to justify why a higher grade is deserved. Specific appeals to lectures or readings should be included as applicable.
3. If the instructor deems that there is enough ground for the challenge, he will re-grade the entire essay or identification section, depending on what is being appealed. The student's grade may go up, down, or remain unchanged.

Any appeals not following this format will be ignored.

Academic Integrity

Please be familiar with the University's academic honesty policies (url: <https://wustl.edu/about/compliance-policies/academic-policies/undergraduate-student-academic-integrity-policy/>). Violations will be handled with the utmost seriousness. Violators will be referred to the academic integrity office.
